

MICHAEL STRAHAN

Co-Anchor, "Good Morning America"

Host, "The $100,000 Pyramid"

Michael Strahan, an award-winning television host and anchor, entrepreneur, Super Bowl champion and both Pro and College Football Hall of Famer, is co-anchor of ABC's "Good Morning America," alongside George Stephanopoulos and Robin Roberts, and host of ABC's primetime show "The $100,000 Pyramid." Michael joined "GMA" in 2014, and he was named co-anchor in 2016. His decade-long journalism career has earned him the prestigious Peabody Award, induction into the New York State

Broadcasters Association's Hall of Fame as Broadcaster of the Year, several Daytime Emmy® Awards for "Good Morning America," and a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame for his work in sports entertainment.

Strahan has reported on major news events, including the COVID-19 pandemic, the death of George Floyd, the death of Breonna Taylor, the passing of "Black Panther" star Chadwick Boseman, the United States Women's World Cup victory, the Santa Fe High School shooting in 2018, the devastation of Hurricane Harvey, the London Bridge terror attack in 2017, the passing of Pope Francis, the Palisades fire in 2025, the coronation of King Charles, the Uvalde school shooting, and the Maryland bridge collapse. His notable, exclusive interviews include former President Barack Obama, Angelina Jolie, Jon Bon Jovi (featured in the primetime special "Michael Strahan x Jon Bon Jovi: Halfway There"), Minnesota Gov. Tim Walz, Maryland Gov. Wes Moore, former Vice President Kamala Harris, former second gentleman Doug Emhoff, and other prominent figures in politics, entertainment and sports. He has also reported extensively on mental health, cancer, climate change and the everyday people making a big impact on the world, with assignments from London, Canada, Italy, Iceland and Easter Island.

In 2024, ABC debuted "Life Interrupted: Isabella Strahan's Fight Against Cancer," an emotional primetime documentary produced by ABC News Studios and SMAC Productions, which followed Strahan's daughter Isabella's diagnosis, treatment and recovery. The special offered an intimate look at the impact of cancer on a family and the resilience of those fighting it.

From 2012 through 2016, Strahan co-hosted the top-rated, nationally syndicated entertainment talk show "Live with Kelly and Michael." Strahan and co-host Kelly Ripa were awarded both the 2015 and 2016 Daytime Emmy for Outstanding Entertainment Talk Show Host.

Strahan is the co-founder of SMAC Entertainment, a multidimensional talent management, music, branding and production company creating a major presence in the sports and entertainment arena. In addition to representing globally recognized talent, SMAC produces a diversified slate of film and television content, with projects set up at primetime cable and broadcast networks, including HBO

Max, BET, Roku, Vice, DIRECTV, Showtime, ABC, CBS, E!, NFL Network and Nickelodeon, as well as top streamers such as Prime Video, Apple TV and Netflix. Notable projects include “Coach Prime,” “ESPN 30 for 30: Deion’s Double Play,” “Wiz Khalifa: Behind the Cam,” “Back in the Game” and more.

In 2015, Strahan launched his lifestyle brand, Michael Strahan™, which currently includes more than 50 product categories, including home decor, skincare, sportswear and more. Strahan also released his bestselling book, “Wake Up Happy: The Dream Big, Win Big Guide to Transforming Your Life,” which includes personal stories and motivational advice.

Prior to joining the ranks of the top broadcasters in the country, Strahan played for 15 years in the NFL, was a seven-time Pro Bowler, and was one of only four players ever to lead the NFL in sacks for two seasons. In 2007, Strahan led the New York Giants to a dramatic Super Bowl victory over the previously undefeated New England Patriots. His spectacular NFL career earned Strahan induction into the 2014 Pro Football Hall of Fame class, the sport’s highest honor, and the College Football Hall of Fame class in 2025. During the NFL football season, he serves as an analyst on “Fox NFL Sunday.”

Born in Houston, Texas, Strahan spent most of his youth in Germany, where his father Gene was stationed in the U.S. Army. Strahan returned to the U.S. for part of high school and was soon recruited to play football at Texas Southern University.
