TIM MINEAR

Executive Producer on ABC's "9-1-1"

Tim Minear is well known among genre television fans for his work on such shows as "The X-Files," "Angel," "Dollhouse" and "Firefly." In the Ryan Murphy-verse, Minear served as an executive producer on the first nine seasons of "American Horror Story" as well as co-showrunner on the first season of the critically acclaimed limited series "Feud: Bette and Joan." Minear is co-creator, executive producer and writer on the hit drama "9-1-1," as well as the franchise's beloved first spinoff, "9-1-1: Lone Star," which ran for five seasons. "9-1-1" is currently in its ninth season on ABC and has welcomed another spinoff, "9-1-1: Nashville," which Minear serves as an executive producer.
