SARAH TIMBERMAN and CARL BEVERLY

Executive Producers on ABC's "R.J. Decker"

Producing partners Sarah Timberman and Carl Beverly run Timberman/Beverly Productions. In addition to being executive producers of the new ABC drama "R.J. Decker," which was created by longtime company favorite Robert Doherty, inspired by Carl Hiaasen's novel "Double Whammy" and starring Scott Speedman, Timberman/Beverly were also the executive producers of Rob Doherty's brilliantly reimagined Sherlock Holmes drama "Elementary" for seven seasons on CBS, starring Lucy Liu and Jonny Lee Miller; the CBS Paramount+ drama "SEAL Team," which starred David Boreanaz and ran for seven seasons; the acclaimed Netflix series "Unbelievable," starring Kaitlyn Dever, Toni Collette and Merritt Wever; the award-winning "Justified" for FX, starring Timothy Olyphant and Walt Goggins, which spanned six memorable seasons; the Showtime series "Masters of Sex" from Michelle Ashford, featuring Michael Sheen and Lizzy Kaplan; "Unforgettable" for CBS/A&E; "The Odd Couple" for CBS; "The Man Who Fell to Earth" for Showtime; "Fleishman Is in Trouble" for FX; and recent, the "Justified" spin-off, "Justified: City Primeval," for FX. Timberman/Beverly is currently prepping its latest pilot, "The Rockford Files," for NBC/Universal, penned by Mike Daniels, directed by acclaimed filmmaker Greg Mottola and starring "SEAL Team" alum David Boreanaz.
