

BIOGRAPHY

COREY FELDMAN

Contestant on ABC's "Dancing with the Stars"

Corey Feldman began his acting career at just 3½ years old when he auditioned for a McDonald's commercial — which went on to earn a Clio Award and aired for eight consecutive years. By the time he was 4, he was already filming regularly, and now, Feldman is proudly celebrating his 50th anniversary in entertainment. From a career that has garnered over 100 theatrical films — 18 of which were No. 1 at the box office — along with over 100 television appearances, five TV series, 20 U.S. tours with various bands, three Billboard Top 40 hits, multiple viral videos, and a historic "Today Show" performance that became the most-viewed musical act on the show at the time, Feldman's legacy continues to evolve.

This milestone year is filled with exciting creative ventures, beginning with the release of his highly acclaimed new single, "Characters," a tribute to The Beatles. The track features a live orchestra, a Dolby Atmos mix, and a groundbreaking AI-driven music video, all debuting in summer 2025. In addition to new music, Feldman is set to release three EPs over the course of the year and is launching the career of rising artist Adrien Skye under his CiFi Records label this fall.

As one of the original stars of "The Goonies," Feldman is also helping to celebrate the film's 40th anniversary by co-producing a new docuseries that chronicles the refurbishment of the iconic Goonies house — a nostalgic landmark for fans across generations.

In the past six months, Feldman has seen four of his films picked up for distribution, receiving both theatrical and digital releases. These include "The Birthday," now streaming and earning renewed critical acclaim; "Going Viral," which features his music and an original music video; "Operation Belvis Bash," now available on Amazon; and "Sour Party," which recently took home the Soderbergh Award at the Kaan Film Festival.

Behind the camera, Feldman has produced two documentaries as well as a feature film about his life for the Lifetime channel. He is also the author of the New York Times bestselling memoir "Coreyography" and continues to evolve as an artist, performer and producer, with new music, film and creative projects rolling out throughout 2025.
